

Forum: Free Express i¼`è±aç"±â`—è»Ši¼%o

Topic: æ-»éžæ'•é£`è“

Subject: Re: æ-»éžæ'•é£`è“

Posted by: Anonymous

Posted on: 2007/4/28 16:33:53

Hey Futari

Does it also mean â€˜dialecticâ€™™? One of the definitions of being dialectical means to force an antithesis, or counter proposition, resulting in opposing assertions of the contending thesis; trying to resolve a disagreement by denying some presuppositions, and hence move towards a third thesis.

In ancient times dialectics were understood to aim at being persuasive through irrational dialogue.

Cheers.