Bucky was an eager beaver. â€œMake way!â€• he cried. â€œWhy-ah, here comes another log!â€• â€œAw, Dad!â€• Junior pined. â€œWe have plenty of logs already. Letâ€™s just make do with the ones we have.â€• â€œWhy-ah, certainly not!â€• replied Bucky. â€œWe must make sure that our lodge by the riverbank is sturdy and strong. We must make use of all the logs we can. Why-ah, after all, when the floodwaters come, we donâ€™t want our home to be destroyed.â€• â€œAw, Dad. Our makeshift dam is strong enough. Weâ€™ll make out all right. We always have. Besides,â€• complained Junior, â€œweâ€™ve been as busy as beavers!â€•
