How could I tell the story of my love?

How would I write my life story?

The story of how my life began

I could not write the story of my life

Not a word without you being the focus

The beginning and the end

I could share all that I have done

I could share all that I want to do

But I could not share anything of my life

When it is not about you

You are my life

You are what fills my heart and soul

Since the day you entered into my heart

My life has become filled with happiness

Love and Care

And so much more

So how could I write my life story?

When you are my life

My future life to be

You have been part of my life

Although I did not know

For you were meant for me

For you were sent from up above

As an angel

To the time that you became part of my life

We were both searching

Searching for that moment in time

When an angel would become mine

You are what my life was meant to be

To take an angel into my heart

To fill it with love

I did not realize that my life would not start

To the day god brought you into my heart

For god knew that you would make me whole

Make me the man I should be

The man that you now see standing before god and you

You give me the inspiration

You give me the answers to all my questions
And calm the worry and pains that have been hidden
Deep within my heart
You have become the fire within my heart
The fire that burns deep within my soul
So how could I write my life story?
Without the woman I love
Being the beginning
The middle
And the end
