Hi Aspirant

No trouble at all. Only my fingers did the job.

As a parent, the responsibility for my son's education is complete. He will commence employment Monday next, hence will not pursue a Ph.D; at least for now. Besides, I do not have a deep enough pocket to sponsor a doctorate program which will take another two years. As it is, my children's (three of them) education had already cost me a fortune.

My past employment had been most illustrious and satisfying. But right now, I am jobless! My country, unlike the USA, Canada, parts of Europe and Australia, do not practise "free handouts" for the unemployed. So, I have to spend with caution, my hard earned savings for the rest of my life.

Ha ha! Do you have a job for me, Aspirant?

Cheers.
