

Forum: Grammar i'¼ æ-ʔæ³•i'¼%o

Topic: There is/There are

Subject: Re: There is/There are

Posted by: futari

Posted on: 2007/8/23 19:00:13

More info on the usage of "There is" and "There are".

(Meant to send in more info from books, but unluckily, I had most of my books packed for shipment.)

=====

<http://eltnotebook.blogspot.com/2007/03/there-is-and-there-are.html>

=====

... Notice that with this use the verb generally agrees with the first part of the complement. So :
Thereâ€™s a letter and two messages for you is correct, as is There are two messages and a letter for you. But There are a letter and two messages â€™ is incorrect.

What about Thereâ€™s two messages for you ? Grammatically of course this is illogical. But ...

=====