No, no, in fact there was no question here... I came to the conclusion that the text is edited. It was just strange to see it that mixed.

It's a pity pinyin can be used only with simplified characters. As I have not got a Taiwanese keyboard I had to stick cut off letters on mine (I uploaded a photo), this is how I can use traditional Hanzis. It would take a time to master the usage.

Not quite sure of your question.
You are asking how to input the characters using æ³¨éŸ³ç¬¦å•·ï¼Ÿ
I only know hanyu pinyin method.
