

Forum: Free Express ĭ¼`è†ªç"±â—è»Šĭ¼%o

Topic: Internet Tax in Hungary ...

Subject: Re: Internet Tax in Hungary ...

Posted by: montanius

Posted on: 2014/10/30 19:41:04

@Hungary-EU

It is impossible. Even the supporters of the leading party are against it. This is simply not an option. - Besides, 10% of the Hungarian GDP is in fact EU support (I could use as well an even more offensive term here: "aid"). As I see our government blackmails Brussels.

On the other hand, Russia is very weak in fact. In my opinion all its steps are signs of desperation. If oil prices drop, Russia catches a cold... If it produced banana, we'd call it a "banana republic". Ok, it is not real banana, neither a real republic.

@Tv fee

We had something like this years ago. It was to be paid per tv sets. Anyway, strange how our government still hasn't found this idea.

Cheer up, Dagege, I am sure things are on the right way - in the long run.

Quote:

Iericow wrote:

I am a bit in fear, that Hungary is more and more on the way to leave the EU in direction Russia ...

But btw., here in Germany we also have to pay a kind of TV or more general a media fee - even if you don't want to use the official medias ... because they are mostly boring.

Look here:

<http://www.toytowngermany.com/wiki/GEZ>

Have a good evening! I am in the moment not in the mood to speak about Mainland China ~~~