

Forum: Common English Questions i¼ ê(±æ-‡å, è(:å••é;Œi¼%

Topic: 啰引è(±èªž? Subject: Re: 啰引è(±èªž?

Posted by: montanius

Posted on: 2014/11/8 1:15:29

Yea, the same here, in Hungary.

But, see, it is quite a special case when the meaning is different.

Actually "Can you speak English?" is a less polite form of saying "Could you speak English?", which is a less polite form of saying "Would you be so kind as to speak English?", in other words "Would you be so kind as to use English instead of the language which you used now?" c%-1å°c*æc4...法.

Quote:

Yunqing wrote:

I believe most of people from my country use these 2 questions without realising that there could be difference in meaning. Haha! This is not just a Taiwanese English issue.