i admire ur ability to translate every idiom well, now i'm searving 'PM' division, it's short for 'product management'

here are so many user manuals written in english, of course electrical related,it's so difficult for me to read and make them clear,because it always have a difficult meaning to what i learned at school , and my manager is a taiwanese he told me to take it easy, and his english is pretty good, i don't know how u taiwanese learned english, just like native speakers,can someone tell me?
