there was a country music song called' 500 hundred miles away from home' , i'm really 500 hundred miles away from home now.

the day before yesterdays's night, a friend of mine sent me a short message saying that:"we all miss u ,it's so pity for ur absence when we were taking our photos for graduation, we had a big party at noon and the school's broadcasting station plays some music we loved the most at school time,we all cried," after reading these words, i felt so sad, i really want to fly back to my school and say sorry for my defection, we once declared to share our everything, poverty or wealth, but now i'm 500 hundred miles away from u all.

just two days later, our deep-set team will separate,the scene once acted in my minds so many times, but i never thought it came so quickly and as if it should be, but i can't witness it happening.they all say we can meet some days latter,but i never believe in the future,it's unrealistic in my opinion, we are even not able to capture today.

it's time to say goodbye.

here,again, 500 hundred miles away from my school ,i want to bid my farewell to my fellow students.
