One student is a home buyer, one student is real estate agent

 $\dot{e}^{1} \dot{e}^{2} \dot{e}^{3} \dot{e}^{3}$

- --Meet in the real estate agent's office and introduce yourselves
- --Buyer: Discuss your desire to buy a house. You are not sure if moving to the country or staying in the city is the right choice
- --Agent: convince the buyer that living in the country is the right choice.
- --Discuss two different country houses for sale
- --Choose one house and agree to buy it

thanks

A:May I help you?

B:Yes, I get married recentlly so I'll buy a house. And my name is Emily Li. Just call me Mrs. Li.

A:Mrs. Li, do you have any desire to buy a house?

B:Yes. Actually I live in a country town before.

A:I think the air is fresh.

B:That's right. Although it's quiet and not so crowded, there is not convenient.

A:I guess so. The traffic is not convenient there, right?

B:Yeah, so my husband and I decide to move the city.

A:That will be great.

B:We want to buy a house near by the MRT station. And it better has parking lot.

A:Oh,there are just two houses near by the MRT station and has parking lot.

B:That's nice. How much are they?

A:One sells 3 millons. The other one sells 2.5 millons.

B:What's different?

A:The price is more expensive.

B:HAHA. I know.

A:The size is bigger. One is 30 pings, the other is 25 pings.

B:Uh..how many rooms do they have?

A:Both of two houses has three rooms. And each house has a full kitchen, living room, and a bath room with a full bath.

B:Ok

A:Just one house is more spacious.

B:Oh..I see.

A:Ok.Do you have any question?

B:No.That's all.

A:So which is your final choice?

B:Uh..I think the price is cheaper one.

A:Why?

B:I think it's almost the same. Just the size is different.

A:Ok. You can pay 5 millions in advance for down payment. We can make a contract in my office. B:OK.

A:Follow me,please.
