Dear Mr Glotynn & Mr Geoette, Sirs

First of all, I would like to thank you for those encouraging words. To me, the selection is a rare offer and I am honored by the recognition that my academic record matches the challenges of such an elite university. Yes, I am proud to be a part of the University of Chicago that has such notable achievements which leaves me to ponder on how to face those challenges ahead. I might (if the both of you and those other professionals here are willing) seek further help in studies on topics of economics, statistics and mathematics. My academic year will begin in September 2007; hence I will still have a little space to pose some questions and receive expert advices from professionals of this website here, to prepare myself for some expected rough passages ahead. Thank you again gentlemen.

Best regards.
